

Freshmen Class Enters; Four Gain Scholarships

Twenty-five members of the recent Freshmen class began their collegiate studies at Loyola on Wednesday, January 31.

Of this total, four students from Loyola High School won scholarships valued at $400.00 each in the competitive examination given to high school graduates on January 13.

Kenneth Molz, Francis Moan, Murray Hall and Robert Trainor received these grants of free tuition. The examination comprised a Psychological Aptitude Test, an English Composition Test and a test in algebra and plane geometry.

The new class will be the last class to matriculate under the two year accelerated course which will be discontinued at the end of July.

Accelerated Course

Thus they will complete their freshman year in six months and will begin their sophomore year under the three year course which will begin in September.

The Freshmen will take courses leading to Bachelors' degrees in Arts, Sciences, and Business Administration. The candidates for Bachelor of Science in Business Administration attend classes on Tuesday evenings. These are given by Dr. Granville H. Triplett at the Maryland Institute of Accounting and Finance.

The class will take courses in Mathematics, English, Public Speak-

Scribes Herald Press Meeting

The third annual Catholic Press Meet for schools and colleges of the Archdioceses of Baltimore and Washington will be held this year at Notre Dame of Maryland on Thursday, February 22.

The Program will begin at 10:15 a. m., in Le Clerc Hall, with an address by Dr. Regis L. Boyle, President of Quill and Scroll International Society for High School Journalists, and moderator of The Easterner, publication of Eastern High, Washington, D. C.

Sectional Meetings Held

After the opening talk, sectional meetings will be held in individual rooms beginning at 11:25 a. m. These one hour sessions include a thirty minute address by the sectional speaker, followed by a discussion for the remainder of the period.

Robert E. Hiltz, News Editor of THE GREYHOUND, will address one of these college sectional groups on "How to Secure College News."

Sponsor Variety Show

Lunch will be served in the high school cafeteria at 12:30, followed by a Variety Show in Le Clerc Hall.

Mr. Burke Walsh, NCWC Foreign Correspondent, will address the delegates in Le Clerc Hall at 2 p. m. The Catholic Press Meet will close at 3 p. m. with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament in the chapel.

Rector Awards Prizes, Honors To Undergrads

The honors and awards for the last academic year were presented at an assembly of the student body late this week.

Dean's List Published

The following students have been placed on the "Dean's List of Distinguished Students" for the fourth quarter ending January 19.

Seniors: Dodd S. Carr, Joseph L. Gessler, Jr., and Robert E. Maizell.

Juniors: Jerry M. Cohen, William A. Meyer, Jr., and Howard J. Strott.

Sophomores: E. Paul Coffay, Robert M. Gamson, Robert E. Hiltz, Edward M. Rehak, John B. Reilly, and William C. Rogers, Jr.

Freshmen: Louis A. Fritz, Manes F. Greenberg, Thomas L. Lalley, and William H. Seldon.

Freshman B: Charles J. Stine.

Medals Awarded

The awards for the highest averages in the undergraduate classes were also presented and are as follows:

The Myers Gold Medal for the highest yearly average in Junior Philosophy was awarded to William A. Meyer, Jr.

The Murphy Gold Medal for the highest yearly average in Junior Religion was won by Howard J. Strott.

The MacTavish Gold Medal for the highest yearly average in Physics went to Lawrence Bockstie, a Junior.

The McNeal Gold Medal for the highest yearly average in Inorganic Chemistry was awarded to Louis A. Fritz.

The Susan Murphy Gold Medal for the student in Sophomore year, who attains the highest average in all his courses was awarded to Robert E. Hiltz.

The Ryan Gold Medal to the student in the Freshman class who attains the highest average in all

Bellarmino Orators Drop Close Debate

The Villager Debating Society of St. Joseph's College of Philadelphia won a 2-1 decision over Loyola's Bellarmine Debating Society in a contest held at St. Joseph's on January 26.

The debate was Loyola's first of the season, and St. Joseph's second, after losing a debate to the Naval Academy.

So close was the debate, that the judges had difficulty arriving at the decision. Robert Hiltz and Thomas Lalley of Loyola upheld the affirmative of the topic: "Compulsory Arbitration of All Labor Disputes." Robert Young and Philip Murray from St. Joseph's spoke for the negative.

The Rev. Matthew G. Sullivan, S. J., Moderator of Debating, accompanied the speakers on the trip to Philadelphia. All were cordially received by the Rev. Gerald Kernan, S. J., Moderator of the Villager Debating Club.

Drive To Construct New Chapel Starts

The Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S. J., President of Loyola College, has announced that Loyola College will inaugurate a Drive for contributions to erect a Memorial Chapel for all the Loyola Students who have died in the war or who have gone into the Services to fight.

This announcement comes at a time when more than one thousand of Loyola's sons are serving in every branch of the Armed Forces, and at a time when twenty-one of these men have been reported killed in action.

Present Chapel Small

The plan calls for a much larger and more beautiful Chapel to be constructed than the present one. It will seat six hundred or more students and will be built along the same lines of architecture as the Science and Library buildings. The old Chapel was always intended to be but a temporary building and consequently it was made with only a seating capacity of about one hundred and fifty, or but one fourth of what the new Memorial Chapel will accommodate. It was clearly seen at the outbreak of the war, when Loyola's enrollment approached the five hundred mark, that the present building was far from adequate and that a better edifice would have to replace it.

As a memorial to those who died in World War II, the Memorial Chapel will be a permanent tribute to their memory, and will also be a thanksgiving offering for those who came through the conflict safely.

List Of Contributors

The name of the Chapel will be the Chapel of St. Francis Xavier, and on each of the stained glass windows will be painted the name

Greyhound Plans Service Issue

The next issue of THE GREYHOUND, March 9, will contain a complete Service Honor Roll, and pictures and biographies of all Loyola alumni who have made the supreme sacrifice in this war.

We ask the parents and friends of any alumnus in the armed services to notify us of any promotions or decoration which he may have received.

Since this issue will be of special interest to alumni in the armed forces, we request that it be mailed to them by their families.

Awards Honor Two Casualties

Second Lieutenant Frederick C. Cook, ex. '44, USAAF, and Second Lieutenant Lindsay C. Spencer, Jr., '39, USA, both killed in action, have been awarded decorations posthumously. Major General Philip Hayes, Commanding General of the Third Service Command, presented the honors to the next of kin of both men.

The Air Medal with three oak leaf clusters was received by Mrs. Victor I. Cook, of 3412 Gwynns Falls Parkway, for her son, Lt. Cook, who died in action while with the Ninth Air Force.

Silver Star To Spencer

The fifth highest Army award, the Silver Star for gallantry in action, was given to Lindsay C. Spencer, of 3043 St. Paul St., for his son, Lt. Spencer, who met his death last Spring while serving with the Eighth Infantry Division.

The citation accompanying Lt. Spencer's medal stated, "During the action he was mortally wounded, but refused evacuation until all other wounded men had been removed to safety."

Repulsed Counterattacks

For this gallantry and for repulsing enemy counterattacks against his position in France by keeping his platoon and other squads intact, despite heavy enemy machine gun, mortar, and rifle fire, he was presented with the Silver Star.

Lt. Cook, who was twenty-three, was cited for "meritorious achievement" in aerial flights in the European area.

Previous to this notification, Cook had been posthumously awarded the Purple Heart.

Conant, Heying Listed Missing

August J. Heying, Jr., '42, and Robert Henry Conant, '37, were recently reported missing in action by the War Department.

August Heying, of 1701 Windemere Avenue, was serving in the Army when the announcement came that he had been missing. He attended elementary grades at St. Bernard's Parochial School.

Entered Loyola College In 1938

From Loyola High School, where he was graduated in 1938, he entered Loyola College in pursuit of a Bachelor of Arts degree.

At college he became an active member of the Sodality for three years and the Holy Name Society for four years. Aside from his work in the Sacred Heart League, the Chemists Club, and the Social Science Club, he was both a player and manager of lacrosse.

Conant Attended St. John's

Robert Conant, the other missing alumnus, came from Westminster, Maryland, where he attended St. John's High School. He matriculated at Loyola College in 1933 and was graduated in 1937 with a Bachelor of Science Degree.

His application to the Georgetown University Graduate School for a fellowship in the Department of Chemistry was accepted. In 1942 he was awarded his Doctor of Philosophy degree from Georgetown.

'Varied Courses Will Improve Adult Education' - Fr. Drane

by Robert E. Hiltz

"The present program of the Spring Semester of the School of Adult Education is very appealing because of the emphasis it puts on the current interest in the cultural subjects. These courses along with the usual necessary subjects in Speaking, Mathematics, and Business offer a better variety than we have ever before presented."

The Rev. Joseph K. Drane, S. J., Director of these Evening Sessions, thus described the School of Adult Education which is now entering into its fourth semester. The Spring Semester will begin February 26 and continue on to June 16.

Anxious To Enroll Many

"At present we are particularly anxious to enroll adults in the courses in Ethics, Psychology and Religion. One of these Religion courses, of interest to Study Clubs, provides substantial acquaintance with the four Gospels, and the other gives an exposition of recent social problems and the encyclicals. These classes are conducted by the Revs. William V. Herlihy, S. J., and William F. Maloney, S. J., respectively.

Among the other courses given will be Effective Writing by the Rev. Paul J. Gibbons, S. J.; Oral English by Father Drane; Public Speaking by Mr. David Kennedy; Modern Treatment of the Criminal and Delinquent by the Rev. Joseph

J. Ayd, S. J.; and the Far East in Modern Times by Dr. Edward A. Doehler.

Psychology Course Offered

In the field of Psychology the Very Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S. J., will conduct a course in Human Psychology, Rational Level, while the Rev. Matthew G. Sullivan, S. J., will offer Educational Psychology. The Rev. Thomas J. Higgins, S. J., will give a course in Sociological Ethics; and Mr. Walter Dawkins will lecture on Business Mathematics.

Fr. Drane added, "The students enrolled in the past have expressed themselves most enthusiastically as to the practical value of the courses, the pleasant nature of the surroundings, the student companionship, and have praised the quality of the teaching. All have repeatedly urged us to continue and develop the project."

Popular Courses

At present the most popular courses are Fr. Ayd's Sociology, Fr. Bunn's Adolescent Psychology, and Fr. Drane's Oral English.

Classes in each subject are held once a week in the library building at Evergreen from 8 to 10 P. M. Applications should be made now for registration which will be conducted before the first sessions of each course.

Bombardier Braun Wins Air Medal

First Lieutenant Martin E. Braun, Jr., '41, USAAF, recently returned to the United States after participating in action in the European Theatre of War. At present he is stationed at Miami Beach for reassignment.

Lt. Braun, a B-25 bombardier, flew on fifty-seven missions in Italy, winning the Air Medal with seven oak leaf clusters.

Math Prexy Takes Office

E. Cuyler Jackson was elected president of the Mathematics Club of Loyola College at a meeting held early last week. James MacDonald was named as secretary of the club.

Mr. Joseph S. May, moderator of the organization, announced that the future meetings of the year will be held on every third Tuesday, at 2:30 p. m.

Jackson will deliver a paper entitled "Calculating Prodigies" to the club members on February 27. The other members of the Mathematics Club will, in turn, trace the history of mathematics at the subsequent meetings.

Mr. Walter Dawkins, professor of Calculus, will assist the speakers in securing the material for the talks.

Chapel Fund

of a deceased alumnus. At the entrance will stand a plaque on which will be engraved the list of contributors.

While many details are lacking at present, it is planned to have a special statue to Our Lady, Queen of Peace, in the Chapel and perhaps three altars.

In order to raise funds for the realization of this project, Loyola is requesting that every family of an Alumnus in the Services donate some contribution to the Drive, and accordingly pledge cards will be sent out to all friends of the College. Large contributions are also expected from Alumni in the Service.

Universal Support

The student body of the College as well as every Society and Club at Loyola will add their share to the fund. The Alumni Association is urged to add its support as the official link between Loyola and its alumni.

When interviewed concerning the Drive for funds to build a Memorial Chapel, Fr. Bunn stated, "The time is most appropriate for the erection of such a Chapel. It will be a reminder to the future student body of boys who gave their lives in this great conflict for the preservation of peace."

"The perpetual light burning all during the war on the campus marks the significance of religious development of the student, and the new Chapel will be the best means of equipping them with motives for participation in the prevention of war. Everything else has been thought of, international education, political and economic reforms, but without strong religious meaning all other efforts will fall short."

In succeeding editions THE GREYHOUND will publish more information on the Memorial Chapel, and every issue will carry a full list of all contributors.

Since we can't think of anything mean, clean or witty to put up in this space, we might just as well begin with—

A BRIEF MENTION: Of Pup Del (It was only two-thirty) Hanzsche's plan to supply a phone to anyone who can't get a priority . . . Wouldn't be one from your Alma's mater, would it, lad? . . . and of John (Open All Night) Blume's twenty-four hour service . . . We hear he's quite a Beach-comber but we won't tell Marianne . . . Oh no! . . . and of Tony (I'll have three bottles) Ristaino and his wrestling class . . . they say he features a terrific hold known as the "Immaculata headlock" . . . Works too (we think).

AIN'T IT A SHAME: That Sid (I give up) Roche misses all the "Make this one for Joan" foul shots . . . haven't we seen a few of the "Old-timers'" names lately . . . especially when there's a nice little affair like a Buchness-Mohler combination again? . . . ah yes, those Levering Hall dances . . . Georgie the Black sheep and Sally . . . (Want a nice little lap dog, honey?). Woof-woof!!

SNOOPIN' AROUND: We were slightly amused to see Frank (Where did YOU hear about Ozella?) Cashen and his phone tete-a-tetes . . . This isn't Amberlie Lane, Frankie, OR Rita . . . and Joe (Wilbur's a speedy fella,—too) Bronushas with the ticket stub . . . has a 'SEE' plus average in that, we hear . . . We also got a slight chuckle from Lou (I don't care about Vira) Franz who goes through a dance (especially a Polish one) taking off his coat, tie, sweater and. (Even I know that any more won't get past Censor Bill—WHAT a party—Meyer.)

FROM THE PROFS WE HEAR THAT: Charlie (And Mike wanted ME to take Latin, too) Meagher doesn't think the sweet young thing will jump from the fifteenth floor . . . that John (Elusive) Hupfer doesn't really have a set of blocks in that bag he carries . . . it just looks like it . . . that Mannes (Yea, I take accounting) Greenberg is really pluggin' along with Economics AND Sociology . . . and that Jack (My cousin's taking over) Arthur is slightly amazed at his progress in physics . . . Claims he can't even turn pages that fast.

WAYWARD WAIFS: Johnny (But I'm talking as slow as I can) Mudd seems to be slightly affected by the antics of Tony, the furriner from way down yonder ('naplis they calls it, chil-luns) . . . Tom (Lifeguard) Lalley has the L.H.S. swimming situation well in hand . . . and,—the Poison Ivy vine has it that Unto (You mean we eat our lunch in class?) Erkkila has been proclaimed the Cassanova (j.g.) of North Baltimore . . . We also remember the Ball, but that'll be our secret, huh?

YOU'LL BE STARTING SOMETHING IF: You call Joe Gessler "Precious" . . . if you say something to Bill Connor's cocker spaniel about Joan . . . Or vice-versa;—the printer will mix it up anyway . . . and finally, if you ask George (And they were such nice boys) Spiegel about his B. C. 'friends'.

WE TRY TO IGNORE: The plans that Seidman and Ensor make for the Big Three (Cockeysville, Forest Park and Middle River) . . . the hours that George (I know where that stub's from, too) Bardelman spends in trying to get an L. C. jacket . . . and Earl Brannan's smile when someone mentions Marianne.

CURIOUS QUERIES: We hear that L. (I'm looking up what to look up) Bockstie would like to know why Coffay boils on Mary Avenue . . . You tell him, Paul; he skipped those chapters . . . and WE would like to know Howe our boy Bill Rogers is doing . . . All the doctor got when he started operating was an old appendix . . . and we'd also like Ray Buchanan to finish the story about the farmer's daughter.

FINAL WARNINGS: To Bill (Boy am I hungry!) Cahill to stop yelling at L. C.'s blushing Valentine, Mrs. Tippet . . . (She can't hear Geraghty when you make that noise) . . . and to John (I MIGHT have a date—I'm not sure) Ahlers to RE-write this column and stop putting in his own comments . . . (Father, make him stop it. He makes me sooo MAAAAD!!!—Watchdog) . . . and finally, to Paul Coffay who hashes up the stuff in this column that the Magnificent Fraud misses. (Dear Dog: We didn't touch a word—almost. Signed, Ahlers and Coff.)

IN THE SHORT SPACE THAT'S LEFT: We'd like to thank Fr. Paul (We just can't resist putting this one in—"fried-egg sandwich") Gibbons for the best 'school' day we've had this year . . . Seriously though,—Congratulations!!

Universities Committee Reports:

Faculty Carefully Weighs Dumbarton Oaks Proposals

1. The General Nature of the Plan. The text of the Proposals drawn up at the Dumbarton Oaks Conference has by this time been widely read and many of its features thoroughly discussed.

We have been told that the conferees reached agreement on ninety per cent of the matters discussed, and that subsequent discussion would soon settle the remaining ten per cent. However, it would seem that the unsettled part is far more than this mere one-tenth.

In fact there is as yet, so far as the published text of the Proposals is concerned, no clear indication of the exact nature of the organization that is to be set up.

Question of Voting

The fact, that Chapter VI on "The Security Council" contains as its Section C on "Voting" nothing more than: "None: the question of voting procedure in the Security Council is still under consideration," leaves the nature of the organization open to two entirely different interpretations.

It is generally understood that the reason for this blank in the Proposals was the fact that from certain quarters demand was made for absolute unanimity in all voting by the Council. In other words, the question became one of allowing or not allowing the great-power members of the Council to exercise the power of veto over action by the general organization.

Varying Opinions Result

Involved in this discussion is a difference of opinion that makes for two entirely different understandings of the purpose of the Proposals.

If the veto power is allowed, and particularly if it is what is called the "absolute great-power unanimity rules" (if the consent of a great-power which is a party to a dispute is necessary for the applications of sanctions and the use of the enforcement machinery of United Nations against itself) the organization becomes, obviously, a very limited thing. It is practically a league of great-powers to prevent aggression by lesser powers, but powerless to act against one of the great-powers.

If on the other hand this "absolute great-power unanimity rule" by which unanimous consent of the permanent Council members would be required for action in disputes to which they were not party, the organization would be in truth a collective agency for the suppression of all aggression.

While the great-power league to suppress minor acts of aggression may be a desirable thing, it is hardly the goal for which we are fighting. The full agency of universal collective security is certainly a part of that goal.

Strong Organization Necessary

To say that such universal coercive power for the maintenance of peace would be impossible of realization is merely to beg the question. Opponents of the idea argue that such an attempt would lead to another disastrous war, forgetting that the very existence of a strong organization with an assurance of speedy and decisive collective action would be the one real deterrent of future wars.

The aggression by the Central Powers in 1914 as well as the Axis expeditions of 1939 would hardly have happened if there had been in existence a real organization of collective security which those powers knew would immediately rise against them. Had there existed, beyond this, an organization that would have used this same united front in previous preventive measures, the chances of aggression would have been even less.

Need Security Agent

Great-power aggression will always be dependent upon the assumption of division and disunity among the forces of peace. What is needed is a real collective security agency that will mobilize the peace forces and the anti-aggression forces of the peace-loving nations of the world against any disturber of the peace, small or great. The Dumbarton Oaks Proposals will provide this only if the absolute great-power veto is excluded from the final Charter.

2. Comparison with the League of Nations. The action of the Security Council as an agency for enforcement of peace seems to be more effective than the corresponding action of the Council of the League of Nations. This is said in spite of certain criticisms that must also be made of the Security Council provisions in the Proposals.

Whereas the League called for action by the Council only in the event of war or a dispute that was liable to issue in war, the Proposals give the Security Council the right to act in any dispute which is likely to endanger the maintenance of international peace and security.

News In Brief

Pvt. Frank J. Goldsmith, ex. '45, USA, after serving six months in the Infantry, visited Loyola College and renewed acquaintances with his former classmates. For the past three months he has been attending North Carolina State College as a member of the A.S.T.P.

John Giblin, '43, was married to Miss Rose M. Klug on Saturday, January 20 at St. Mary's Church, Govans. Mr. Giblin attended Georgetown University after his graduation from Loyola and is now employed at the U. S. Naval Observatory. Miss Klug is a graduate of the Institute of Notre Dame. The couple will take up residence in Washington, D. C.

John M. Krager, Seaman Second Class, ex. '46, USNR, journeyed to Loyola from his post at the Stational Hospital Corps School at Bainbridge, Md. John was inducted into the Navy in the latter part of October.

Major Edward J. McClure, '38, USAAF, of the 15th AAF in Italy, has been promoted to the rank of Major in the Liberator wing headquarters in Italy, where he is assistant adjutant.

Major McClure has taken part in Fifteenth Air Force aerial operations in support of the Russians in the Balkans, the Partisans in Yugoslavia, the Fifth and Eighth Armies in Italy, and the Seventh Army's invasion of south France. His wing has directed more than 100 missions against enemy targets in nine southern European countries.

Pvt. Murray Carmody, ex. '46, of the United States Army Air Force, was home on a nineteen day furlough. He spent many days at the college gymnasium playing basketball with the students.

Pvt. Thomas Garvey, ex. '45, USA, returned to Evergreen two weeks ago on a brief leave. Pvt. Garvey has been taking his basic training in Florida.

Strott Chosen Senior Prexy

Howard Strott was elected president of the Senior class at a meeting held late last month. The other officers for the class are: William Meyer, vice-president; Robert Longley, secretary; and William Hodges, treasurer.

Cuyler Jackson, Laurence Molloy, and Louis Franz, along with the above, were nominated as candidates for offices.

Edwards Is Editor

Strott stated that the first job is to publish the Evergreen, the annual yearbook, and at a recent class meeting, George Edwards was appointed Editor-in-Chief.

Special Section For Ex. '45

Apart from the Senior section, there will also be a section devoted to all those who entered Sophomore year with this class, but who have left Loyola College to join the Armed Forces.

Since plans call for a yearbook instead of a small war-time class book, the publication will also include individual sections of each class, activity pictures, and sports.

At present the class has not decided upon the dedication. The Rev. Thomas J. Higgins, S. J., is moderator of this issue.

Wilder Missing In Reich Attack

Pvt. Harry W. Wilder, ex. '43, of the Army Specialized Training Program, has been reported missing in action in Germany since late last year.

He attended Loyola College for one year, and then completed his pre-medical course at Regis College in 1943, where he was associate editor of the student yearbook, The Brown and Gold Record.

Immediately after entering the A.S.T.P., he was transferred to the infantry at the discontinuation of that program. In September of last year he was sent overseas, and a few months later came the announcement stating that he was missing.

Sodalists Vote Hiltz Prefect

At the final meeting of the Sodality last year, Robert Hiltz was elected prefect; William Meyer, vice-prefect; Paul Coffay, secretary, and Robert Longley, treasurer.

Coffay will represent the Sodality on the Student Council, since Hiltz and Meyer represent the Debating Society and THE GREYHOUND respectively.

When the Sodality held its first business meeting of the new semester, Hiltz asked for volunteers for the four Sodality commissions.

Committees Formed

Lawrence Bockstie volunteered to direct the Rosary Committee; George Bardelman, the Eucharistic Committee; Howard Strott, the Sanctuary Committee; and Joseph Heinekamp, the Catechetical Committee.

The Rev. Thomas J. Higgins, S. J., moderator of the Sodality, announced that beginning with the first Monday of Lent, the Stations of the Cross will be held every week at this time in the Chapel by the Sodality, and he plans to make this devotion a traditional one.

Mr. Hiltz extended a welcome to the many freshmen who attended their initial meeting of the Sodality, and announced that at the next business meeting the treasurer would collect dues for the semester.

Sodality Will Award Pins

It was agreed upon to again continue the practice of awarding the Sodality pin to outstanding members, and James MacDonald volunteered to head a committee which will determine upon what conditions the pin will be awarded.

The most important activity of the Sodality at present is the compilation of a spiritual bouquet, which the members are going to send to Our Holy Father, Pope Pius XII, along with their Easter greetings.

Mr. Meyer is in charge of collecting the offerings of each member, and accordingly slips were distributed to all which were filled in with Masses, Communions, Rosaries, Visits, and Stations of the Cross, that the Sodalists offered.

"The increasing membership and loyal enthusiasm of both the regular and new members of the Sodality is most heartening," said Mr. Hiltz. "and we anticipate one of our most successful years."

Ahlers Chronicles History Of Small Student Chapel

by John Ahlers

The present Student Chapel was not always a building for students exclusively. In fact it was not always a Chapel in the strict sense of the word, but was a Church, the Church of the Sacred Heart in Mount Washington.

Looking through the records, we find that in the year 1923 the Chapel was moved from Mount Washington to its present site at Evergreen.

Chapel A Gift

To accomplish this transfer, the structure was taken apart and transported to Loyola, where it was then reassembled as it now stands. The Chapel was the gift of the late Rev. Francis Craig, former pastor of the Sacred Heart Church.

Standing to the right of the Library Building on Cold Spring Lane, the Students' Chapel is built like the Faculty House in half-timbered Tudor style. Its small seating capacity numbers one hundred and fifty.

Windows Are Memorials

Each of the twelve windows is a memorial to a Loyola alumnus who was either a member of the Society of Jesus or died as a victim of the first World War. These stained glass windows were donated to Loyola by the friends and relatives of the deceased.

The twelve who are commemorated are: Pvt. Cyril A. Emory, ex. '15; Cpl. G. Frank Weatherley, ex. '20; Lt. John P. McCarthy, ex. '18; Ensign John Ganster, ex. '16; Capt. William J. Keating, ex. '16; Lt. Joseph T. Hanlon, '12; the Rev. Francis X. Brady, S. J.; the Rev. Francis L. Fenwick, S. J., '04; Francis O. Goldbach, S. J., '11; E. George Storck, S. J., ex. '96; and R. Emmet Lacy, Novice, S. J., '95.

Students Start Campaign

It is interesting to note the willingness of the students of the years 1922 and 1923, for when the need was felt for a Chapel, a campaign was inaugurated to raise funds to furnish one of the large classrooms as a students' Chapel.

The drive began on October 31, 1921 and within five days the amount originally asked for was oversubscribed, and within another week this amount was doubled.

However, in 1923 the Chapel of the Sacred Heart was brought here and the classes of 1922 and 1923 pooled their contributions to help purchase the altars, statues, and pews.

George Buchness Represents Frosh

George Buchness, of the '45 February Class of Loyola High School, was chosen to represent the Freshmen class in the Student Council.

He was selected from the seven nominees for class officers of the freshmen, after Laurence Molloy, president of the Student Body, addressed the newcomers on February 2.

Buchness will continue to represent this class for a two week period until the formal elections are held to secure a president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer.

Juniors Select Class Officers

As a result of class elections, George Bardelman was re-elected president of the Junior class. Paul Coffay was made vice-president, Edward Rehak was named secretary, and Robert Hiltz was re-elected class treasurer. The elections took place on Tuesday, January 30.

Nominations were made by the class two weeks prior to the actual elections, and the list of names was posted on the bulletin board. Upon their approval by the Student Council, the seven nominees were then eligible for election to a class office.

Nominees Listed

Besides the above elected officers, the three other nominees were William Rogers, Joseph Bronushas, and John Ahlers.

Voting, both for nominations and elections, was by a closed ballot. For nominations each member of the class listed seven names on a slip of paper, and of those receiving the highest number of votes, four were selected for offices.

Juniors Plan Promenade

The most pressing business facing the Junior class is that of preparing for their Junior Promenade. The Prom will be held sometime in early Spring and more details will be decided later.

Court Statute Topic Of IRC

The voting was unanimous and speedy as the International Relations Club chose their officers for the coming year. Howard Strott now presides at the weekly meetings as Chairman and Robert Hiltz assumes the duties of Secretary.

Conference Postponed

Originally the foremost item on the IRC's agenda was the preparation by the members for the United Nations Conference to be held April 5 to 7 at Lafayette College. However, three weeks ago the Office of Defense Transportation cancelled all reservations to the conference, and the plan had to be called off.

Each College attending was to have represented a nation of the world and present the policies of that country. Loyola was scheduled to represent Australia.

Work On Permanent Court

Now the IRC is working on the structure of the Permanent Court of International Justice which will be the concern of the second meeting of the Maryland Regional IRC Conference to be held at Loyola.

Changes, modifications, and additions to the Old Statute are being discussed and the entire project aims at evolving the best possible Statute in accordance with Chapter VII of the Dumbarton Oaks Proposals, which treats of an International Court of Justice.

Council Chooses Three Officers For New Year

At the first meeting of the Student Council for the new Academic year the following members were elected officers: Howard Strott, vice-president; William Meyer, secretary; and Robert Hiltz, treasurer.

Mike Molloy, recently elected by the students as president of the Council and of the Student Body, presided over his first meeting and conducted the elections.

Two Are Re-elected

After the meeting had been called to order and old business dispensed with, nominations were called for, and Strott received a unanimous vote to be re-elected vice-president over Hiltz.

Then Meyer was chosen over Coffay by a unanimous vote to continue his duties as secretary. Finally Hiltz was elected treasurer in a close ballot over Longley.

Aside from his duties as secretary of the Council, Meyer also edits the Student Council News. This weekly bulletin serves to inform the student body of the activities and reports of the Council, and lists the forthcoming meetings of every society and club.

Molloy Was Treasurer

Hiltz's office of treasurer was formerly held by President Molloy for two years.

In the Student Council, Strott represents the International Relations Club; Meyer, THE GREYHOUND; and Hiltz, the Bellarmine Debating Society.

The other members of the Council and the classes or societies they represent are: George Edwards, the Senior class; George Bardelman, the Junior class; Jack Arthur, the Sophomore class; Paul Coffay, the Sodality; Robert Longley, the Masque and Rapier Dramatic Society; Cuyler Jackson, the Mathematics Club; and Charles Meagher, the Athletic Association.

Buchness Represents Freshmen

George Buchness, who was selected last week to represent the Freshman class, now sits in on the Council discussions.

The Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S. J., President of Loyola College, presides at each meeting in an honorary capacity, and Dr. Edward A. Doehler, professor of History, is the attending delegate of the Faculty.

Honor War Heroes

How can Loyola College best express her remembrance and gratitude to her sons in the armed forces? When that expression must fit the sacrifice, even the supreme sacrifice, of young noble youth who give their all for God and Country, the task is one that calls for the highest type of expression.

We believe that Loyola College's plan for the erection of a Memorial Chapel is about the most apropos expression possible. That a place of worship should be erected to remember all the Alumni of the College is a tribute higher than any honor roll or devotion. Not merely a passing eulogy or a list of names will serve to honor these Alumni, but a permanent full-sized Chapel to which all the future students of Loyola will come, both to pay their own homage to God, and to perpetually voice their prayers of remembrance for the more than 1000 students who departed, some forever, for the second World War. The Chapel will be a pledge of our efforts to preserve a permanent peace; it will constantly remind the future student groups of the boys who gave their lives to achieve this peace. Its purpose will be two-fold: to enshrine the names of all the service men, living and dead, and to give warning to us that we must complete and preserve the goal of peace for which they fought.

Undoubtedly the Memorial Chapel will be timely. It will be called the Chapel of St. Francis Xavier, and we note that in this war many are now fighting in China, Japan, India and Malaya, the very areas where St. Francis traveled and converted heathen souls. With the anticipated rise in student enrollment that will even surpass the pre-war total, the Chapel will fill a pressing need in seating six hundred students; it will accommodate four times as many as the present chapel does. It is planned that it will be the first of several edifices, among them an Administration Building and Dormitory, that will be erected.

For such a lofty purpose, one that will have such a permanent effect, we believe that only the most generous efforts should be expended. Thus we appeal for contributions from the families of those whose sons have died in the War, and whose names will grace the stained glass windows, and to the families of every alumnus in the service in order that they might express their thanksgiving for the safe return of their sons. The list of all contributors will be posted at the entrance of the Chapel, and undoubtedly that list will contain the name of every Loyolumnus and friend.

As the official organ of publication of the Drive information, THE GREYHOUND feels it is a privilege and a service that has rarely been given it. Every organization within and without the College should see the Drive in the same light. For the students and the clubs they belong to, it should have a particular motive.

Thus, do we seek the aid of all our friends. And this financial aid will be but a fuller participation in the spirit of adequate expression for the sacrifice of the men of Loyola.

The Reader's Right

January 24, 1945.

Dear Father Gibbons,

I doubt if you know me very well, or at all for that matter, since I left college as you entered. However, be that as it may, we both have something in common. Loyola. Please allow me to take this opportunity to thank you from the bottom of my heart for your wonderful letter.

It seems as though your letter was the key that opened up the door to good fortune, for right this minute our ship is speeding eastward. Yes, with a little luck, and Mister Fate on our side, this little destroyer escort might be back on the west coast for repairs in a few short weeks. There are several boys on the ship who attended Loyola on the west coast, and if given the opportunity we plan to visit the college together and compare notes.

As yet I haven't received THE GREYHOUND of December 15, but am sure it will live up to the standards it has established in the past. We have officers on board from colleges as far West as University of California, as far North as Wisconsin, south as far as Texas A. & M. and East as far as Yale. They have all read the paper and agree that it is one of the best college papers they have ever seen. They were astounded when I told them how small the school was.

I realize that it is a pretty tough job to keep a college going in these days but I'm sure the Jesuits will manage. They always have, and something like a war won't stand in the way of their ideals, in the form of a liberal education. I'm positive that after the war many of the boys now embroiled will return to school, and Loyola will take its place at the top of the U. S. schools.

Father, I want to assure both you and the editor, that I would consider it a compliment of the highest order, if you decided to print my letter in the Reader's Right Column. It would indeed surprise my mother to see one of my letters in THE GREYHOUND. To tell you the truth, I never imagined that my letters were half interesting enough for one reading. It's pretty hard at times to find the right things to say due to the routine of this life plus naturally those men (the censors).

There's not much I can tell you about our operations out here except to say what you already know. We've definitely got the Japs on the run, and time is the only element now involved.

Well, Father, watch calls now, so I'll have to sign off. Incidentally, please excuse my hand writing but it's pretty tough trying to write with so much rolling and pitching. Thanking you again for your letter, I remain,

A Loyola Man.

Lt. (j. g.) Thomas Cinnamon, '43, USNR.

Panama Canal Zone,
January 5, 1945.

Dear Father Bunn,

I just returned from the South Pacific and found your letter of September 20 awaiting me. I was very glad to hear from you, and much more pleased to learn that Loyola is planning to aid her former students in seeking their post-war education.

I strongly intend to return to the classroom after the war, and I would appreciate your advice on just what steps to follow. I intend to obtain a degree in mechanical engineering. As you know, I have credits for one year's work at Loyola, and will, upon graduation, receive certain credits from the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy, at which time I will hold a marine engineer's license. I am interested in finding out just what these credits, as a whole, are worth towards obtaining a degree, and just how much more schooling is required.

I have been keeping in contact with Loyola by copies of THE GREYHOUND, which have been forwarded from home. I find THE GREYHOUND still as interesting and complete as ever, despite the lack of students you must have.

Give my regards to Father Cawley and to all the teachers. I am hoping to hear from you again.

Sincerely,

William Winand, ex. '45, MMR, USNR.

Condolences

On behalf of the Faculty and the Student Body, THE GREYHOUND extends heartfelt condolences to the Rev. James A. Walsh, S. J., on the death of his sister. Funeral services were held on Monday, February 12.

Plastic Bullets Reduce Expense In Gun Firing

A machine gun, which uses plastic pellets and compressed air instead of expensive bullets and gunpowder, yet provides all the racket and recoil vibrations of a wartime anti-aircraft weapon, has been developed by engineers of the Edison General Electric Appliance company for use in training soldiers at less cost.

This gun, which operates by electricity, will fire 600 rounds of the plastic bullets per minute, the same rate as the 50-calibre Browning machine gun.

Operation Cheaper

Whereas 50-calibre bullets cost approximately thirty cents each, making the cost $180 per minute for operation of the Browning gun, the plastic pellets cost less than one cent each and can be used over and over again, with an occasional soap and water washing.

The gun is built to actual size and appearance of the Browning type. It is handled exactly like one except that its operation is on a scale of 1 to 30.

Thus when fired at miniature buildings and tanks or airplanes zooming across the sky at a distance of fifty feet, it simulates firing an actual gun at 500 yards.

Gun Fires To Scale

Pellet velocity and trajectory are according to scale, hence the trainee learns correctly to "lead" a moving target and to aim his gun by the stream of white pellets, which become fluorescent at night in the "black light" of an ultra-violet spotlight attached to the gun.

Amplified "explosions" of compressed air accustom the trainee to the distractions of actual muzzle blast, and the recoil and recordings of dive bombers tend to eliminate the jitters he might otherwise experience in his first combat firing.

Awards Given

The Carrell Silver Medal for the highest yearly average in Sophomore English went to Robert E. Hiltz.

The McNeal Silver Medals for the students who attain the highest yearly average in Sophomore and Freshman Religion were awarded respectively to Robert E. Hiltz, Sophomore, and Louis A. Fritz, and Thomas L. Lalley, ex aequo, Freshmen.

Students Get Premiums

In addition to the above, premiums were awarded to students who gained the highest averages in the following subjects: Charles Schmidt, Calculus; Howard J. Strott, History; Thomas L. Lalley, College French; John Arthur, College German; Mannes F. Greenberg, College Spanish; Louis A. Fritz, Freshman English; and Howard J. Strott and Robert E. Hiltz, ex aequo, Sociology.

Bellarmino Group Given Radio Spot

The Loyola College Bellarmino Debating Society will engage in a round table discussion on the radio on February 22. The program will be broadcast from the studios of radio station WCBM at 7:30 p. m.

Robert Hiltz, the chairman, will conduct the discussion offered by Frank Cashen, Thomas Lalley, and John Mudd. They will show that tolerance and unity among men can be gained only by a liberal education.

This broadcast will be similar to others given by schools during Brotherhood Week, February 18-25. These programs are sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Graduates Win Senior Awards

At the Commencement exercises on Sunday, February 4, the awards for high scholarship, won by members of the graduating class, were presented.

The Whelan Gold Medal, founded by Thomas A. Whelan, which is awarded to the Senior student who attains the highest yearly average in Ethics, was awarded to Joseph Leo Gessler, Jr., and Robert Edward Maizell, ex aequo.

Maizell also merited the Grindell Gold Medal, which was founded by Dr. Charles S. Grindell and which is awarded to the Senior who attains the highest yearly average in Psychology.

The Rev. Joseph A. d'Invilliers, S. J., Dean of Loyola College, announced the awards and presented the medals.

Faculty Sifts Dumbarton Oaks Proposals

ture lies in the prospect of the work that such a body may do in preventing such disputes from ever coming to be disputes likely to issue in war.

Furthermore, the League Covenant gave to the Council absolutely no guaranteed forces with which to suppress the forces of aggression, whereas the Security Council under the Dumbarton Oaks will have the immediate use of air force contingents and the subsequent national forces guaranteed in advance by member states in dependence upon contributions. While this is inferior in effectiveness to the possession of its own international force, it is certainly an improvement over the mere "recommendations" of the League Council.

3. Suggestions for Amendment. The conferees at Dumbarton Oaks admittedly gave only a plan, not a final charter for United Nations. The governments participating in the Conference suggested to their respective peoples the importance of widespread discussion of the proposals in advance of the next meeting of the powers for the actual drafting of such a final charter.

NFCCS Probes Work of IRC's

International Relations and Dumbarton Oaks was the topic of the third meeting of the Maryland Region of the National Federation of Catholic College students.

The meeting was held at Trinity College, which holds the International Relations Commission of the NFCCS, on Sunday, February 11.

To facilitate discussion on the Dumbarton Oaks Proposals, three delegates delivered papers on the application of the principles contained in the plan to the Western Hemisphere, the Far East, and Europe. Loyola's delegate, Robert Hiltz, presented the first of these three papers on the Western Hemisphere.

IRC Is Sole Agenda

It had been decided at the previous meeting of the NFCCS at Dumbarton College to make International Relations the sole matter on the agenda of the next meeting because of the opposing attitude of other IRC clubs in non-Catholic Colleges. These divergent opinions were loudly voiced at the recent IRC Conference held at Scranton University.

In order to prepare for the meeting at Trinity, each of the ten member colleges sent two reports to Trinity, the first, a preliminary report stating the general subject under consideration in each of the individual IRC's, and the second, more detailed in outline, setting forth the decisions and agreements reached by each club.

Discuss Dumbarton Plans

After the presentation of the three papers, the representatives engaged in lengthy discussion concerning the Dumbarton Proposals, and each school expressed its attitude as to the merits of the Plan.

Will Not Accept Ideal Charter

In these discussions it should always be kept in mind that what is to be drawn is not the ideal charter that no nation would be apt to accept, but the best charter that will be possible of acceptance.

We must not be "perfectionists" but practical men. To seek too much may well be to secure nothing. This does not mean that amendments may not be proposed, but the amendments must be practical and reasonably acceptable.

One point on which the Proposals might possibly be improved is in connection with the action of the Security Council. In Chapter VIII, Section B, on action with respect to threats to the peace or acts of aggression, the Security Council is given many powers but no real obligations.

It "should" determine the existence of any threat to the peace, and "should" make recommendations or decide upon measures to be taken"; it "should" be empowered to determine what measures not involving the use of force should be employed"; it "should" be empowered to take such action by air, naval, or land forces as may be necessary to maintain or restore international peace and security."

Powers Not Sufficient

This does not seem to be sufficient. The value of effectiveness of the collective security agency is go-

Activity Heads Address Frosh

The president of the Student Body and the presidents of the societies extended greetings to the incoming Freshmen class at a meeting of the class on its second day at Loyola.

The Rev. Thomas J. Higgins, S. J., Moderator of the Sodality, first addressed the freshmen and explained the purpose and structure of the Sodality.

Dean Introduced Speakers

Following Fr. Higgins, the Rev. Joseph A. d'Invilliers, S. J., Dean of Loyola College, introduced the club presidents, each of whom spoke for ten minutes.

William Meyer, Editor-in-Chief of THE GREYHOUND, explained the student publication and urged the men to join the staff. Robert Longley, president of the Dramatic Society, stated that actors and stage managers were needed for the Spring production of the thespians.

A. A. Head Speaks

Robert Hiltz, president of the Bellarmino Debating Society, said that three debates had been scheduled for next month, and Charles Meagher, president of the Athletic Association, urged better participation in sports and attendance at athletic contests.

Mike Molloy explained the ramifications of the Student Council, of which he is president, and outlined the Freshmen regulations.

Father Gibbons Presents Four Greyhound Pins

The Rev. Paul J. Gibbons, S. J., moderator of THE GREYHOUND, announced that the Greyhound pins have been awarded to the four members who recently left THE GREYHOUND staff.

They are: John Plunkett, former Editor-in-Chief, now serving in the United States Army; John Krager, former Business Manager, who is presently a Seaman Second Class in the U. S. Navy; Charles Bagley, III, Make-Up Editor, who was graduated in February; and Jerome Cardin, Business Staff.

Plunkett Entered Army

Plunkett was inducted into the Army November 11. His post of Editor has been taken over by William Meyer. Krager left Loyola after the mid-term examinations in October and is now a Seaman Second Class serving in the United States Navy. William Rogers, Jr., replaced him as Business Manager.

Meyer has appointed John Ahlers Feature Editor to fill the post of John Kernan who also was graduated. The offices of Make-Up Editor and Headline Editor have been dropped from the masthead.

Staff Changes Made

Besides the other changes several writers on the News Staff have also been inducted into the Armed forces. Stewart Koehler and Charles Seipp did not return to College after the completion of the year, and Frank Whittle of the Sports Staff is now in the Service. Gerard Connolly was lost to the Circulation Staff at graduation.

Sophomores Name Arthur President

The Sophomore Class elected its officers for the coming academic year on Wednesday, January 17.

By a tabulation of the votes cast by the Sophomores, Jack Arthur was chosen president; Vincent Bagli, vice-president; William Kelly, secretary; and John Mudd, treasurer.

In order to simplify the procedure of elections, seven candidates were selected by a vote of the class in previous meeting. The nominees were: Jack Arthur, Vincent Bagli, William Cahill, John Harmon, William Kelly, George Lochner and John Mudd.

William Taylor, retiring president of the class, presided over the meeting. Taylor left Loyola on February 7 for service with the Army Air Forces.

Eagles Down Greyhounds

American University barely eked out a victory over a fighting Loyola aggregation, 42-39, at Washington. Sid Roche, versatile Loyola star, garnered high scoring honors with twenty-one points.

At the half, Loyola was on the short end of a 28-14 count. But it was a rejuvenated Greyhound team that took the floor in the second half.

The Hounds scored eight more points before the Eagles could manage a basket, and then gradually cut the Washingtonians lead until the score was tied. The two teams exchanged baskets, but with the clock running out, Bob Lindeman dropped a shot from the pivot, and then added a foul try.

The game was featured by the brilliant defensive play of George Bardelman. Bardelman held Ray Love, the Washingtonians' ace, to seven points, while he himself hit the cords for eleven.

Bagli and Fay Lead Greyhound Cheers

The two Loyola cheerleaders who scamper out of the stands to lead the Loyola cheers are Terry Fay and Vince Bagli.

They perform at all the home games, and whenever the referees toot their whistles for a time out, they descend from their perches and go through the various contortions that make cheerleaders so necessary for school spirit.

And who should know better than they about school spirit? Both are old hands at the art of leading the congregation in lending vocal support to their teams.

Vince Bagli has been a cheer leader for four years, while Terry Fay has three years of experience behind him.

Despite the small crowds, the cheering has been robust. But Bagli and Fay still aren't satisfied. "We'll make those cheers louder and snappier," they resolve.

Cohen, Holdover Of 1944 Squad, Enters Service

The Greyhound basketball team suffered the loss of their remaining holdover from last year when Jerry Cohen withdrew from school to enter the Navy. Jerry played on the varsity last year as a member of the second team.

Defensive Player

Standing a mere 5' 7", Jerry was a great defensive ball player and a constant scoring threat. His ability to split the cords can notably be seen in the 93 points he has gathered during the present campaign. His greatest single offensive performance was established in a recent game with Mt. St. Mary's when he amassed 13 points.

Jerry bowed out of athletics at Loyola with an outstanding performance against Randolph Macon, when the Evergreen quintet was victorious, 39-33. Besides giving a brilliant performance defensively, he hit the hoop for nine points.

Good Student

In spite of the concentration on basketball, Jerry maintained a high scholastic average and was a constant leader on the Dean's List of distinguished students.

Jerry will be pounding the deck instead of the hardwood, but wherever he goes, he is bound to make good. Loyola will always remember Jerry as a gentleman, a scholar, and a great basketball player.

M-D Tournament Booked; Hounds Rated Underdog

With the approach of the Mason-Dixon Conference playoffs, another basketball season is nearly written into the record books. The "grand finale" of the hardwood campaign will start on March 1, and run until March 3, with all of the contests staged in the Evergreen gymnasium.

Top Teams Compete

The top eight teams in the final conference standing will compete. On the first night all eight will go into action and, by the end of the night, the semi-finalists will have emerged. On Friday, March 2, the semi-finals will be played and the two teams that come out on top will battle it out for the championship on Saturday night.

Mt. St. Mary's, the defending champs, along with American U., Bridgewater, Washington College, Gallaudet, Johns Hopkins, Randolph Macon, and Loyola appear to be the likely contenders for the conference diadem. Delaware, however, cannot be counted out of the race until the final standings are tallied.

Conference Five Years Old

The Mason-Dixon Intercollegiate Conference is about five years old. It was organized in 1940, when the Maryland Collegiate League and the Mason-Dixon Track Conference merged. Originally, the Conference sponsored wrestling, swimming, baseball, track, and tennis, as well as basketball. But all except basketball have been dropped from the list of the Conference's activities due to the war.

In 1941, the Conference boasted twelve members, nine of which are listed above. In 1943, Towson State Teachers dropped out of the Conference due to the war and lack of man-power. Catholic University and Western Maryland College are still members of the Conference, although inactive.

Loyola Swats Yellow Jackets

The Hounds racked up another Mason-Dixon Conference victory, defeating Randolph Macon's Yellow Jackets, 39-33. The victory gave the Green and Gray a 4-5 record in conference competition.

George Bardelman and Jerry Cohen proved a potent combination as each chalked up nine points to lead the Greyhounds.

The first half was give and take, but Loyola led at half time 19-15. The Jackets pulled up to 17-19, but Bardelman came through with a set shot to give Loyola a four point lead.

The Yellow Jackets threatened until the concluding minutes. However, the Greyhounds once more caged a couple of baskets to clinch the victory.

Silents Check Hounds, 42-34

Gallaudet reversed their early season setback as they defeated the Greyhounds, 42-34, on the Gallaudet court.

After playing the Bisons on even terms for the first-half, the Hounds wilted before the second-half drive of the Silents. At the halftime, the score was tied, 15-15.

Gallaudet came back strong at the opening of the second canto, and piled up eleven more points before the Greyhounds could cage a basket. The Silents then coasted to victory, playing the last ten minutes of the contest with their second and third stringers.

Sid Roche, Loyola forward, emerged as the game's high scorer with twelve points.

Faculty Weighs Proposals

the final judge of what conditions are normal and what disputes are justiciable.

The Proposals seem to be missing the opportunity of making use of the great international prestige of such a court with its reputation of a whole generation of glorious history.

Certain Powers To Court

While it may seem a drastic step, nevertheless, it is suggested that the power of the Security Council to decide upon cases of "aggression" and "the maintenance of international peace and security" be transferred to the Court, and the Council be preserved as the executive agency for carrying out the orders of the Court.

The Court would be just as permanent as the Council, and under the present Statute would be sufficiently small to assure rapid settlement. The great-powers would have their check on the membership of the Court since the Security Council (successor to the Council of the League) would have to approve the election of its members along with the assembly successor to the assembly of the League of nations.

In order to make the jurisdiction of the Court cover the disputes that would be apt to disturb the peace, the Charter of United Nations would have to include a modified form of Article X of the Covenant of the League guaranteeing the territorial integrity and political independence of members, as well as the difficult matter of a definition of "aggression".

Distinction Is Useless

The distinction between "legal" and "political" disputes would then lose much of its meaning. While most disputes would be economic or political in character with respect to the interests involved, they would also be legal (or non-legal) with reference to the normative order within which the nations agree to act.

With the Charter of United Nations as an international convention to be applied by the Court, the disturbance of the peace and acts of aggression would be legal matters, and the Court competent to handle them.

Court Needs High Calibre

The high calibre of the Court would make its decisions more acceptable than the disputable votes of a political Council, while the Council would still have the choice of means within the limits of the Court decision and under the mandatory power that would require action to be taken.

In the event of sudden emergencies caused by immediate outbreaks of hostilities, the Council would have to possess the ordinary executive authority to act without Court decision but subject to subsequent authentication of its action.

In this way, it would seem, the organization of collective security would be founded upon an extension of the rule of law, would have more chance of real acceptance of its decisions, more hope of their enthusiastic fulfillment, and more prospects for real world peace.

Importance Of Agency

4. General Attitude Toward World Organization. The importance of some international agency for the enforcement of peace in the post-war world cannot be over-emphasized.

The greatest danger at the present is the obstructionist action that may very well come from the "perfectionists" who want their perfect league or nothing. We should examine the Proposals; they undoubtedly need amendment. We have every right to prefer plans of our own choice, but we must not allow objections to become obstructions.

International organization of some kind must be the outcome of this war; our organization, we hope, the best organization possible. In any case—some organization, or else this war will have been fought in vain.

Delaware Nips Cagers, 36-35

The University of Delaware posted their first Mason-Dixon Conference victory of the season when they checked Loyola, 36-35, in the Delaware field house.

With five minutes remaining in the game, the Hounds held a five point advantage but Bill Monaghan dropped two set shots and added a brace of fouls to erase the Loyola lead and give Delaware their one point winning margin.

Scotty Duncan, Delaware forward, took scoring honors for the contest with fifteen points. George Bardelman was high man for the Hounds as he chalked up a twelve point total, collected on five field goals and two charity tosses.

Mountaineers Drop Evergreen Quintet

Mt. St. Mary's rangy quintet handed the Greyhounds a 55-43 drubbing in a Mason-Dixon Conference encounter played at Evergreen. The Mountaineers swept to an early lead and were never headed.

Wendel Potter, Mt. St. Mary's star forward, dumped in twenty points for the Saints, to lead both teams in individual scoring. Fifteen of the points were scored in the initial half, as the Mounts raced to a 25-16, halftime lead.

George Bardelman paced the Green and Gray offense as he garnered fourteen points. Jerry Cohen, Greyhound captain, secured thirteen markers, ten of these coming in the final stanza.

Quint Primed For Terrors

The Greyhounds will be seeking to repeat an early season victory over Western Maryland when they meet the Terrors next Tuesday night on the Evergreen court at 8:45 p. m.

The Hounds stopped Western Maryland, 29-26, in their last meeting, but the game was a see-saw battle throughout.

Western Maryland is making a come-back, as far as collegiate basketball is concerned, having dropped the hardwood sport last year. However, the present Western Maryland aggregation has had a better than average season.

Joe Thompson is the star and captain of the quintet. Lionel Burgess and Jack Spicknall, tricky forwards of the Terrors, are also expected to give the Hounds plenty of trouble.

The Hounds look to George Bardelman and Sid Roche for most of their offensive punch, and these two, team with Ralph Sybert, Rip Roberts and Bob Longley to make a fine defensive combination.

Bardelman and Roche are both fine point-getters. Roche is apt to run up an amazingly high individual total, while Bardelman, the dynamo of the team, can be counted on to play his usual steady brand of ball.

A.A. Chooses New Officers

Lou Franz, basketball manager and a member of last year's baseball squad, was elected vice-president of the Block L Club at the annual election held recently. Charles Meagher, as head of the Athletic Association, is automatically president of the club.

George Bardelman, president of the Junior Class and a mainstay on the Greyhound baseball and basketball teams, was voted secretary of the organization. George Edwards was selected as treasurer.

Anyone who has received a school letter for participating in collegiate athletics while at Loyola is eligible for membership in the club. Besides banding the athletes of the school together, the club plays a definite part in the social life of the College.

STARS-IN-STRIPES

Seaman Second Class James Lacy is now serving with the United States Navy in Technical School. He entered the service last year after completing his freshman year at Loyola College.

As a youngster, Jim began his sports career with the Baltimore Athletic Club. He entered Loyola High School in 1939 where he continued to prove his athletic ability by starring in basketball and tennis.

Prep Star

He was a member of the Maryland Scholastic championship basketball team of Loyola High in '42-'43. He was all-Maryland in '43 and topped this accomplishment by scoring 225 points to lead the conference in scoring. Jim also starred in tennis. Together with Bill Thaler he won the Maryland State Junior Doubles Championship in '43.

Jim matriculated at Loyola College in June, 1943, being a member of the first class to take the two year speed-up course. In his freshman year he was first choice on the basketball team.

Breaks Record

He became an outstanding personality in this sport. The climax of his first year of collegiate ball, came when he broke the college scoring records of the state with 417 points. Jim also set the individual scoring record for the Evergreen court by ruffling the cords with 32 points against American University.

He received the distinction of being called one of the best freshman prospects ever to enter Loyola. Lefty Reitz once stated that he was one of the few freshmen who could have made his varsity team in peace time.

Class President

In his freshman year, Jim was elected president of the class, and thus represented the class in the Student Council.

In his first year at Bainbridge, despite terrific competition, Jim was nominated to the basketball team along with professionals and college graduates. He showed his ability to contend with such competition when he scored twelve points in a recent game with the highly touted Norfolk Training Station quintet.

Hounds Swamp Hens In Fifth M-D Victory

The Greyhounds took their fifth Mason-Dixon Conference victory as they defeated the University of Delaware, 48-22, on the Loyola court. The Hounds swept to a 6-0 lead, and once in front were never headed.

The Green and Gray proved to be very effective from the outside and tallied most of their points in the first half on long shots. The Hens, however, had trouble with their shots and although they had frequent opportunities to score, could not match the high flying Hounds.

Loyola Leads At Half

The end of the first canto found Loyola holding a 10-4 lead. Delaware matched the Hounds basket for basket in the second stanza as each team collected six points. Half-time found the Greyhounds out in front, 16-10.

Loyola started fast in the final half as Tom Gorman and Sid Roche each contributed two baskets before the Hens could manage a point. The Hounds kept widening their advantage from here on, and some sterling defensive play held the Delaware quintet in check.

Bardelman Sidelined

With George Bardelman sidelined by an injury, Ralph Sybert paced the Loyola attack as he hit the cords for six field goals to score twelve points. Bob Longley and Johnny Mudd played effective ball and contributed six and four points respectively.

Running With The Hounds

By Frank Cashen

The Mason-Dixon Conference playoffs are now less than two weeks off. At this point in the proceedings, American University's Eagles are leading the pack with Mt. St. Mary's and Bridgewater hot on their trail. But how do the Greyhounds stack up against this kind of competition?

Excluding Bridgewater, Loyola has played every other team in the conference. They have split even with Gallaudet in two conference encounters, dropped two to American, two to Mt. St. Mary's, and defeated Washington College and Randolph Macon in their other two encounters.

The league leading Eagles humbled the Hounds in their first encounter, 76-35. But in the second contest it was a different story, and the Eagles were lucky to eke out a 42-39 victory. Should this game have been played on the Greyhound court, we feel that the Greyhounds would have emerged the victor. Mt. St. Mary's seems to be the big jinx as far as the Green and Gray are concerned. Although the Mt. St. Mary's-Loyola games have been always closely contested, and evenly fought, the Mountaineers always manage to take the decision.

Bridgewater remains an unknown quantity and have only a loss to the high flying American Eagles to mar their record.

Gallaudet could prove to be the surprise team of the season. An erratic ball club at best, they are capable of excellent basketball, and should they play heads up ball during the championship playoffs, they will be hard to defeat. In Tom Cuscaden they have an individual scoring star, and their tricky offense built around Cuscaden will be hard to stop.

Washington expects to be hard hit by February losses to the service. Delaware has shown little to mark them as contenders for the crown.

Regardless of these summations, American University will probably be the favorite when the opening whistle blows to start the playoffs. But we warn you not to sell those Greyhounds short.

At this writing Sid Roche, Greyhound guard, is leading the conference in scoring. His twenty-one point performance against American University was probably the outstanding achievement of the year. However, George Bardelman's brilliant defensive work against Ray Love, the sharp-shooting forward of the Eagles, cannot be overlooked. Bardelman held the usually high scoring Love to seven points, secured on two field goals and a trio of charity tosses.

When the playoffs are on tap, individual scoring records, season performances, and conference records mean little. So we advise you to stick with those Hounds, and they won't let you down.

Eagles Humble Loyola, 76-35

Loyola dropped its second consecutive Mason-Dixon Conference basketball game, as the league leading American University Eagles pinned the Hounds, 76-35.

Ray Love, conference highscorer, led the victors to their one-sided triumph with twenty-four points. He received ample help from his teammate, Bob Lindeman, who chalked up nineteen markers.

Although the Eagles' squad consisted of only six players, four of whom played the entire contest, the Washington team, nevertheless, maintained their "race horse" style of basketball throughout the game and won going away.

B Squad Disbanded As Players Depart

The Loyola College B squad was disbanded at the end of the last semester when all but one, of its members entered the service or moved up to the varsity.

John Mudd, high scorer for the little Greyhounds and an excellent ball handler, was promoted to take over a varsity berth.

Bill Seldon, Charles Funk, and Paul Muth, all members of the first team, left school to enter the service, while Don Giblin was lost to the team via graduation.

ALUMNI DOINGS

By Edward A. Doehler, '30

New Members Inducted At Breakfast

On Graduation Day, February 4, following the Baccalaureate Mass at St. Ignatius' Church, the Class of '45 was formally inducted into the Alumni Association at the Stafford Hotel. After a breakfast for the Graduates, arranged by the college and attended by 100 members of the Alumni, the new Alumni received their cards of membership in the Association.

This occasion, inaugurated several years ago, has grown to be one of the memorable activities of the Alumni year. We still recall with pleasure the initiations that were held in earlier years on the campus at Evergreen, and hope that this will again be possible in years to come. But all have remarked that the idea of a formal induction, in the presence of the older Alumni and the officers of the Baccalaureate Mass, is an impressive ceremony that should be and we hope, will be, continued.

Alumni Banquet

Once the Belvedere Hotel was the scene of an "old-fashioned" Alumni Banquet. After several years absence from the scene of many former meetings, the Executive Committee of the Association decided to return to the Belvedere for the Banquet held on Shrove Tuesday, February 13, 1945.

The Chairman of the Banquet Committee, Lingard I. Whiteford, '27, and the faithful members of his Committee are in line for congratulations. They proved conclusively that there are still a sufficient number of Alumni in Baltimore to put on a real affair comparable to those of former years. The thanks of the Association go out to the Chairman and his men.

Through the efforts of Father Bunn we were able to secure a prominent and most enlightening speaker, Mr. G. Ellis Porter. Mr. Porter, the Chief Editor of Foreign Broadcast Intelligence of the Federal Communications Commission, provided much food for thought with his interesting and instructive discussion of "Radio Warfare."

Considering the success of this war-time Banquet, we cannot help but wonder just where we will be able to accommodate the crowds that will turn out for our first Alumni gathering after Victory!

Alumni Days To Be Revived

The practice of holding "Father and Son Days" on the Campus at Evergreen, started about two years ago by the Association and ably conducted by Bob Bouchelle, '30, will be revived in the Spring, according to a report from the Executive Committee. The exact plans have not been completed as yet, and full details will be announced in due time through Alumni Doings.

We are most anxious to have every Alumnus make use of the campus facilities as much as possible. We hope to have a regular date set aside as Alumni Day at Evergreen, and to encourage all members to keep this date open on their calendar. The previous "Father and Son Days" were most enjoyable, although not as well attended as they might have been.

Wedding Announcement

In the last issue we mentioned a note from Sam Powers, '39. Since going to press for that issue we have the following: Mr. and Mrs. Perry Locke announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Marion Woodfull, to Mr. Samuel Joseph Powers, Jr., Lieutenant (j. g.), USNR, on Monday, January 15, 1945, at Miami, Florida.

Congratulations, Sam, and best wishes, Mr. and Mrs. Powers.

Another Alumnus on C. P. A. Lists

Recent announcement in the press reports the successful passing of the C. P. A. Examinations by E. Clinton Bamberger, ex. '27. Always a faithful alumnus, his name is more than usually familiar at Loyola these days for his son, Clinton, Jr., was recently with us as a Freshman. At present Clinton, Jr. is an aviation cadet in the USAAF training in Mississippi.

Loyola Chemist Writes for Journal

A recent issue of National Petroleum News, a monthly publication with a technical section devoted to the progress of petroleum chemical technology, prints an article contributed by Bernard L. Evering, '30. The article discusses "Commercial Isomerization of Light Paraffins," and was previously presented to the Petroleum Division of the American Chemical Society in New York City. Dr. Evering received his Doctorate in Chemistry from Johns Hopkins University and is now doing research with the Standard Oil Company at Whiting, Indiana.

Actors Choose "Career Angel" April Offering

The Masque and Rapier Dramatics Society will present the Broadway hit, "Career Angel," on the nights of Friday and Saturday, April 20 and 21.

The drama will be staged, starting at 8 p. m., in the Loyola High School Auditorium at Calvert and Madison Streets.

Play By Murray

This three-act comedy was written by one of America's foremost writers, Gerard Murray. It was first presented by the Blackfriars in New York, in October, 1943, where it ran for one month. Then "Career Angel" was staged as a Broadway hit for over three months.

Robert Longley, president of the Dramatics Society, announced that Howard Strott has been appointed stage manager for the event. William Rogers will be publicity director, and Laurence Molloy will handle the finances.

Rehearsals Start Monday

The Rev. Matthew G. Sullivan, S. J., moderator of the Society, will direct the play. The casts have not yet been announced, and the rehearsals will start early next week.

Frosh Enter

ing, Theology, French, Chemistry, Physics, German, and Spanish.

Freshmen Listed

Regional Assembly Of IRC Scheduled

The second meeting of the Maryland Regional International Relations Conference will be held at Loyola College on Sunday, February 25, in the Library.

The topic under discussion by the conference will be "The New Statute of the Permanent Court of International Justice." A member of Loyola's IRC will deliver a paper on this topic, treating of the organization, competence, and procedure of the Court. Following this, there will be an hour of discussion by the colleges participating.

Invitations to attend the meeting have been sent out to ten colleges in Maryland. Refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the meeting.

Present Chapel

now stands behind the altar, which the students also helped to purchase, in the Chapel in the Faculty House.

The plaque contains the names of Archbishop Curley and the Rev. Joseph McEneaney, S. J., Rector of the College. At the top of this plaque there is the inscription, "1921, To the greater glory of God, 1922, and for a remembrance of the first students of the new Loyola College who through their own generosity, and that of their friends, furnished the first Chapel at Evergreen."

Then follows the list of names of the sixty-three students who contributed and the following words: "Grant, O Lord, that these thy servants, who have prepared for Thee a dwelling upon earth, may deserve to dwell with Thee forever in Heaven, through Christ, Our Lord. Amen."

Chapel Repaired In '33

The Chapel was repainted and refrescoed, and new fixtures and lamps were installed in 1932 and 1933 when Father Canning was Rector.

Grads Unite At Banquet

Mr. Bart Harrington, '21, Assistant Attorney General of Maryland, was the toastmaster at the annual Loyola College Alumni banquet, held at the Belvedere Hotel on February 13, at 6:30 p. m.

Governor Herbert R. O'Connor, '17, was among the listed guests of honor which also included the Revs. Joseph J. Ayd, S. J., Joseph S. Didusch, S. J., and Joseph A. d'In-villiers, S. J., of Loyola College, Major General Philip Hayes of the Third Service Command, and William T. Childs.

Address By Porter

"Radio Warfare" was the subject of the address delivered by G. Ellis Porter, Chief Editor of the Foreign Intelligence Broadcast Service of the Federal Communications Commission. Mr. Porter has been with the Foreign Broadcast Intelligence since January, 1942.

The Very Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S. J., '17, President of the College, and the Rev. Thomas J. Higgins, S. J., Alumni Moderator, delivered brief talks. Mr. Lingard I. Whiteford was the chairman of the banquet committee.

Doehler Is Financial Secretary

Dr. Edward A. Doehler, Financial Secretary of the Alumni Association, arranged for the reservations for the Alumni Banquet.
